Paid reservations are required for the rare opportunity to dine with and get to know the Reading Festival authors during a buffet dinner overlooking the Caloosahatchee River. Tickets are $75 per person online at www.ReadFest.org through Feb. 15.

In addition to the dinner fundraiser, numerous festival authors are raffling off the opportunity to be named as a character in their upcoming books. The drawing will take place Monday, March 9, at Library Administration. Winners will be contacted that week. All proceeds benefit the Southwest Florida Reading Festival. Showcasing our local talent, the community is invited to attend a free book signing event highlighting home-grown and independent authors 1-3 p.m. Saturday, Feb. 29, at the North Fort Myers Library. The Lee County Library System also hosts a number of preview events at library branches leading up to the Reading Festival. Among the activities offered this year are book signings at various branches by New York Times best-selling authors Mary HoneyB Morrison, Chris Pavone and Lisa Unger. More information can be found at www.readfest.org/events.

Proceeds from An Evening with the Authors and the Name a Character fundraisers benefit the Southwest Florida Reading Festival, a free, community event in downtown Fort Myers for book lovers to meet best-selling authors, participate in contests and activities and find the latest and greatest in books, technology and accessories. The 21st annual Reading Festival will be held 10 a.m.-4 p.m. Saturday, March 7, on the Fort Myers Regional Library campus, 2450 First St. In addition to more than 20 author appearances and autographing sessions, there will be food truck vendors, storytelling programs, arts, crafts, youth writing and coloring contests and a free book for every child and teen.

“The Lee County Library System is proud to offer this wonderful celebration of literacy to the community, which brings festival attendees back year-after-year to meet the fantastic authors,” states festival organizer Melissa Baker. “We appreciate all the generous support of our sponsors and donors that has made this event possible for over 20 years.”

ABOUT THE SOUTHWEST FLORIDA READING FESTIVAL

The Southwest Florida Reading Festival is a family-friendly event that celebrates books and the written word. The Festival began in 1999 with the goals of emphasizing the importance of reading and bringing the finest literary talent to Southwest Florida. Now in its 21st year, this free festival has grown in popularity and averages 10,000 book-loving attendees annually. Some of the past authors include Sue Monk Kidd, Susan Mallery, R.L. Stine, Janet Evanovich, Nelson DeMille, Jeff Kinney and hundreds more.

The Reading Festival’s objectives are to promote reading and literacy, increase awareness of the library’s programs and resources and foster partnerships between the Lee County Library System and the community. It is also an opportunity to share with the community the available resources and services at their local Lee County libraries with a library card. The Reading Festival aims to build a literate community by encouraging children to develop an interest in reading independently, which fosters an increase in vocabulary and improved writing skills.
